

How to Buy a Bayern Ticket at a DB Ticket Machine

01 Pick Your Language

The machines will generally have English along with Spanish, French, Italy, Turkish and of course German. The languages will be indicated by flags. English will be the UK's Union Jack .

02 Look for Offers

The offers should be easy to find, often on the right side (Top Offers) or even a giant button that says "All Offers". If you can't find it, there is a search field , just type in Bayern-Ticket.

03 Choose How Many Passengers

Remember if you are travelling with children, children under 5 are always free, children under 14 years old are free if they are your child/grandchild otherwise they are counted as a passenger.

04 Choose 2nd Class or 1st Class

Honestly 2nd Class will be just fine. It's not like the seating is that much better in 1st Class, it's just a little quieter and there may be more empty seats to choose from. Most trains in Germany are first come, first serve seating unless you reserve a seat. I've never had trouble finding a seat.

05 Choose Your Date of Travel

You can get your tickets the day of travel. Pretty straight forward. You can get the ticket days in advance, but it's not going to be any cheaper.

06 Extras

This is just if you are collecting Bahn Points, which as a tourist you probably aren't. Just pick Do Not Collect.

07 Check Your Purchase

Here you just can review that you have everything right before you pay for the ticket. Make sure the day of travel, number of passengers, and class is correct.

08 Pay and Print!

Hit the Pay button and pay for your ticket. Once it is printed, make sure to write the names of the passengers on the ticket.
